Formal Request Will Be Made To Hold Order In Abeyance

(By International News Service)
PARIS, Oct. 10.—French merchant marine officials today appealed to Premier Poincare to make formal protest to the United States against Attorney General Daugherty's ruling that no ships carrying liquor shall enter the three mile zone off the American shore.

The French contend the ruling violates the freedom of the seas and interferes with the French laws allowing a portion of wine to be served daily as part of the food served French sailors.

The French are threatening customs reprisals against the United States for losses accruing to French commerce as a result of the ruling.

Formal request will be made that the ruling be held in abeyance until diplomatic conversations can be held in an effort to reach an amicable adjustment.

Home Grown Cane Offered For Sale

All doubt as to whether ribbon cane can be successfully raised in this section has been dispelled, for it is now being offered for sale at stores in the county, having been grown in Morgan County. On the Balew Brothers farm on Burleson mountain, the cane has been successfully raised.
Who knows but that in a comparatively short time we may be in competition with Baldwin county in the raising of sugar cane, and may eventually discard the sorghum cane.

COTTON PICKING IS NEARLY OVER NOW, PLANTERS DECLARE

According to many of the farmers who are here to sell cotton, the picking is just about over. Some of the cotton land is already being turned as the gathering is over, and practically all sold on the daily market. The local market was up about $5.00 per bale from last week.

There has been a decided absence of the habit of taking the cotton back home from the gin. Practically every one was ready to sell when the cotton was ginned, and the old habit of taking a chance on the price being better was reversed.

Many are influenced in this course, it is said, by the sad mistake made in 1920 when the price gradually went down to a low level.

Furnace Fired At The Courthouse

The furnace at the court house was fired up this morning for the first time the present season. Court is in session and the prevailing damp cool weather made it necessary for the comfort of the different county officials, and those who are engaged in court work.

With the present week of the Morgan County court fulfilled the next term will begin on Monday, Nov. 6.
Owing to the assembling of the federal court at Huntsville which will probably consume 30 days, and the fact that many lawyers are necessarily there who have cases in the Morgan County court the work of the present court is considerably hampered, and many cases are being continued until next session.

Clifford Hayes pleaded not guilty when arraigned today. Investigators said they were working on another lead which might change the whole complexion of the case.

(By International News Service)
NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Oct.
10.—A new witness who claims to have seen Dr. Edward Wheeler Hall, wealthy rector and his beautiful choir leader, Mrs. James Mills, killed in a battle between a man and a woman on one side and two men and a woman on the other side, was found today.

The self claimed eye witnesses of the midnight tragedy, which has baffled the authorities for more than three weeks, is a woman inmate of the Parker Home for the Aged, which is just across the road from the old Phillips farm, where the bodies of Dr. Hall and Mrs. Mills were found, side by side, beneath a stunted crab apple tree on Sept. 16.

If the woman's statement is verified and proved true, she will prove false the murder charge against 19 year old Clifford Hayes, who is held as the result of a story told the authorities by his pal, Raymond Schneider.

This woman, whose name is withheld at present, said that on Friday morning, Sept. 15, about midnight, while lying in bed she was awakened and heard screams and cries. Getting out of bed she went to a window where she saw a woman and two men fight a man and a woman at the corner of Derussey's Lane and Eastern Avenue, both of which passed either through or by the old Phillips farm.

The struggle, she said, was terrific. Presently the woman said she heard several shots. This frightened her so much she jumped back into bed and hid her head beneath the covers.

It is understood that corroboration of the fight has been obtained from

Candler's Fiance Claims Good Name Has Been Attacked

(By International News Service)
ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 10.—Declaring that she had been insulted and humiliated by charges that her character was not unquestionable, Mrs. Onzeima de Bouchelle, young
New Orleans beauty, announced here today that her engagement to Asa G.
Candler, aged Atlanta soft drink king, had been broken and that she intended to resort to legal means to defend her good name.

In a long, formal statement, Mlle.
de Bouchelle, who has been practically inaccessible since the announcement of the engagement was made, said that Candler himself had told her he had heard reports that she had invited two men to visit her at an Atlanta hotel several years ago.
She said he declined to name the persons who gave him the information.
Yesterday, Mlle. de Bouchelle told newspaper men when she and Candler met. Candler took with him his son, Asa Candler, Jr. She asked him again, she said, for the names of persons responsible for the reports and he refused to give them. Last night she said Candler pleaded with her to go away from Atlanta, but she declined.

Mlle. de Bouchelle asserted her intention to force Candler to endow a home for children in New Orleans and to force him and his brother, Judge John Candler, to publicly assert the falseness of statements she said had been circulated regarding her reputation.

No mention was made of a suit for money.

(By International News Service)
LONDON, Oct. 10.—The Near East conference at Mudania is called a "morass of intrigue, prevarication and underground politics" in a report received by the war office this afternoon from General Sir Charles Harrington, British commander at Constantinople and British delegates to the conference. The cabinet met to discuss it.

General Harrington asked for further instructions, owing to the dilatory methods of Ismet Pasha, the Turkish delegate, who is obstructing the conference in minor points, meanwhile making conciliatory speeches.

Foreign office officials said they had been advised the Mudania conference had taken a recess, but would re-meet at 5 o'clock this afternoon to receive the Turkish reply to the allied program. This reply is coming from Angora, where the Turkish assembly has been meeting.

Premier Lloyd George is reported to be planning to make a great speech, probably on Saturday, defending him-

GREAT IS THE SOUTH.

The South is just realizing that to absorb her own public improvement bonds is good business and keeps the money at home. Heretofore the borrowing has been from the North, being attracted by the rates on money for private development. During the first six months of 1922 nearly $200,000 of improvement bonds were issued by 16 Southern states. Since that time the figures will run even larger for road-improvements in the South. A perfect net work of public highways is in process of construction over the states of the South, and work will extend well into the New Year.

All buildings of a public nature, as well as those of a private nature are of the substantial kind, and indicate a building for the future. Never perhaps in the history of the South has there been so much actual money been put out in public improvements of all character, barring the rush of war days, embraced in the years from 1915 to the armistice.

The South, according to the Statisticians Babson is the richest section in the Union, counting her natural resources, which are just in their infancy of development. She is awaking from her lethargy, and the great things which she is accomplishing actually, and those in contemplation, is surprising even to her students of economic development. She will grow by leaps and bounds in the golden years of promise which spread out just ahead.

THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

One can not help feeling impressed with the cause of education as a view is taken of the splendid new school building which is just being completed at the little town of Flint, six miles to the south of here. The building is of modern construction, with large airy, well lighted rooms and commodious auditorium. It speaks volumes for the school spirit of that small town, and will stand as a monument to the well directed effort of those who made the effort which brought into being the building. It will take care of the educational interests of that section for many years to come. The large schools of the state where higher education is taught have their place, but the public schools of the different counties of the state, are the places where the foundation of education must be laid, and the primary grades represent the most important step in the all important scheme of universal education. Statistics bear out the statement that a very small percent of those who attend the public schools of the country ever complete the high school studies, and this bears out the statement and gives weight to it, that to the public schools is the important functioning of education delegated. If the foundation is not correctly laid, the superstructure will not be permanent or abiding. Those who labor in instructing those in the elementary branches of the schools can be well assured that they are engaged in a most worthy cause, a cause which is the bed rock of all future education.

BRAINS VS. PUNCH.

Well, the world's series is over. Thousands, probably millions, of people who have been devoting their time to listening to news from the ball field in New York can now return to their usual daily avocations. Newspaper offices charged with the duty of serving the public in the distribution of news, can reorganize their demoralized forces and discharge their real duty of assembling and distributing news. It is difficult for any business force to do good work, when its office is overrun by a collection of baseball fans, insistently demanding the latest word of the wile, from a ball game played thousands of miles away. And naturally that force can not work comfortably when three men have to keep their ears to a telephone for three hours during a busy period of their day's work. But the baseball fan is urgent in his demands and he must be served. Even with its discomfort a newspaper recognizes its obligation to its clients and its obligation to serve them the news as soon as it can be collected. The Advertiser believes that it has faithfully performed that service, and it does not hesitate to say, however, that it is glad that the series is over.

New York City monopolized the baseball champions of the two leagues this year even as they did last year. The two New York teams, the Giants and the Yankees, fought out a series of battles for the world's supremacy in baseball in the dist of excitement and enthusiasm which the average man could not understand. It was a battle of brains vs. punch. And brains won. The Giants were picked by the experts in baseball to lose. They did not have number one pitchers and they did not have the driving force. The Yankees had the expert pitchers and they had a Murder's Row of devastating batters, including Babe Ruth, who would break up the games with their trusty bludgeons.

The Giants won the series without losing a single game. That is how near correct the experts were. The Giants had the class, that indefinable quality which, enabled them to take advantage of the breaks in the crises in the games. They were the brainier team, and so they played the better games when the contest got tight. They were both physically and mentally quicker than the Yankees.

McGraw, the Giant manager, fully lived up to his reputation of being the most mentally alert man in baseball. As for the Yankees, they could never get their devastating batters started. Old and supposedly wornout pitchers who were recognized as second raters, held them scoreless. With all their reputation for punch, they lacked quickness and energy when such was demanded. The breaks went against them because the Giants were mentally alert.

The tension is all ended. Let the world get back to its usual affairs.—Montgomery Advertiser.

A QUESTION THAT CANNOT BE IGNORED WITH IMPUNITY.

The advantages that are being gained by the Turks, if they are to be permanent constitute a grave menace to the civilized world. The most outstanding deed of the victorious Turks was the destruction of Smyrna, ancient seat of one of the apostolic churches. Many utterances are being made at this time against the neutral attitude Christian countries are taking against such horrors as the destruction of Smyrna. Some prominent journals accuse such countries as America of acting in effect as did Pilate, the Roman Ruler, who washed his hands, following the trial of Christ in token of his neutrality as to His guilt or innocence. The Biblical Recorder, a well known Southern Journal has the following to say as to Smyrna after recounting the avowed intention of the Mohammedans to destroy the Christian religion:

"Now, let us turn from the cruel treatment taught by the Koran, to the little church at Smyrna and the encouraging words spoken to the faithful little band by the Holy Spirit. Revelation 2:8-10.

"And until the angel of the church at Smyrna write: these things saith the first and the last, which was dead, and is alive; I know thy works and tribulations and poverty, (but thou art rich) and I know the blasphemy of those who say they are Jews, and are not, but are the synagogues of Satan. Fear none of those things which thou shalt suffer: behold the devil shall cast some of you into prison that ye may be tried; and ye shall have tribulation ten days; but be thou faithful unto death and I will give thee a crown of life."

"The Christians in Smyrna today are 'faithful unto death' and many of them have gone to receive 'the crown of life.' The tribulations which their faith in Christ has led them to suffer is the highest tribute that could be paid to the religion of our Lord. But how about the great Christian nations of the earth which stand off with folded hands and allow these atrocities to be committed? We do not say they should be protected because they are Christians, for earthly governments can recognize no difference between Christians and Moslems; but feelings of humanitarianism should lead the civilized nations to protect the defenceless wherever they are persecuted and made to suffer unjustly. Can America hold up its hands and say they are free from the blood of the two hundred thousand helpless and innocent victims who perished at the hands of the cruel Turks when Smyrna was destroyed?"

CONSUMERS WILL PROTEST AGAINST THE HIGH TARIFF.

The consuming classes will eternally protest against such high tariffs as the Republicans propose. The farmers in particular may be depended upon to fight the present tariff schedule. This class consumes over half of the products, therefore it must pay half of all the import duties and half of the margins that must be added by the merchants, on account of high tariffs.

The sheep raisers get a protection, it is said, of $60,000,000, but they pay $75,000,000 for this consideration. On the other hand the few owners of hosiery mills pay only $300,000 and get a protection of $192,000,000 in 1919. It is said that the protection farmers get on flax seed costs them twice that amount, although neither wool or flax seed are imported.

Because the government practically forbids the importation of manufactured goods from overseas by its high tariff laws, the manufacturer having no competition is free to add what he pleases to his selling prices.

In the case of the farmer, he must come squarely into competition with the foreign producers.

THE MANASSAS BATTLEFIELD MEMORIAL

Mrs. Joseph E. Aderhold, Anniston, president of the Alabama Division of the Manassas Battlefield Confederate Park, writes a letter to The Advertiser in which she says:

"I am writing to ask you to give the work designated above one of your splendid editorials. The enclosed data fully explains the movement.

"You know, Mr. Editor, Arlington, Robert E. Lee's old home, was bought from the heirs several years ago, the object being to convert the place into a national cemetery or memorial, when the magnificent memorial amphitheatre was completed at an expenditure of $826,000, the South paying her pro rata share of moneys expended, the indignation of the south was aroused when it was found only the Federal generals had been given recognition. The Confederate soldier and the South had been consigned to oblivion.

"When the South protested against the grave injustice, they turned the deaf, contemptuous ear and refused even the names of General Robert E. Lee and Stonewall Jackson a place on the memorial.

"From this great indignity offered the Confederate heroes, and through them the South, has sprung the Manassas Battlefield Confederate Park, which will be the most splendid memorial ever built in memory of our honored soldiers of the sixties."

We do not see that there is much to be added to the impressive statement of Mrs. Aderhold, except that Alabama's quota is $100,000, of which one gallant Montgomery lady has contributed $1,500, according to Mrs. Alderhold, and that Mrs. Belle Allen Ross, of Montgomery is first vice-president of the association.

Surely every Southerner is in entire sympathy with the splendid project, while thousands of them will be glad to contribute money to the cause.

LESSONS FOR THE FARMERS IN A LITTLE DEAL IN WHEAT

There is a good deal of food for thought for the farmers of the country in the testimony given during the week by J. Leonard Replogle before the federal trade commission which is investigating the manipulation of the wheat market.

Mr. Replogle, who is head of a big steel company, testified that he was at Palm Beach in January, and, acting upon the suggestion of a resort acquaintance, bought 1,250 000 bushels of wheat at $1.03 and $1.04. Before May 1, he had disposed of his purchase at prices ranging from $1.13 to $1.40 and his profit on the little flier was between $300,000 and $400,000. He said that he bought the wheat outright and did not deal in margins. Asked how he financed such a transaction while at a winter resort, he said he kept a balance of several millions with his brokers all the time, and that he simply placed his order with them. He insisted that he knew nothing of any wheat ring to manipulate prices, and that he was acting solely as an individual upon the advice of a friend, as he knew absolutely nothing about wheat.

It is stories such as this that made Congress feel some kind of investigation was necessary, and that has convinced the farmers that something is wrong when men sitting on hotel verandas can make more profit out of wheat in three months than a whole county of working farmers can make in a year.

The farmers must be getting into the saddle so far as congressional representatives are concerned, and it is not unlikely that they will soon be in position to demand a remedy for wrong. N. Y. DRY DIRECTOR

CLEANING UP THE WORLD.

The Westerly, R. I., Sun prints a clean-up appeal which is a little out of the ordinary and deserving of wide attention. It states:

"The finest evidence of good citizenship is a clean body, a clean house and a clean ship.

"Clean up!

"Waste baskets should be made larger and storerooms smaller. Half the attics and basements in the United States are filled with—junk!

"Clean up!

"The drawers and pigeonholes of most desks are crammed with—junk!

"The workrooms, storerooms and yards of the average factory contain enough junk to sink an ocean liner. It occupies floor space that costs about 50 cents a square foot a year to maintain. It slows up production, gives the shop an appearance of disorder, lowers the quality of the product. 'It might come in handy.' Yes, but in the meantime it will eat you up in charges for rent and handling.

"The employer who operates a clean, orderly shop is doing a public service because he is teaching his men by example the lesson of cleanliness.

"Bathtubs! Blessed be the name of Adam Thompson, who installed the first bathtub, in his home in Cincinnati in 1842.

"If we would only make the world clean, all other problems would settle themselves."

There's an intimate, personal quality about that appeal which goes straight to the reader's heart. Almost everyone knows of at least one attic and one set of drawers and pigeon-holes that need to be cleaned up.

A clean house, a clean body and a clean shop this year, with a clean city, a clean world and a clean human race in the future. The picture is irresistible.—Tuscaloosa News.

TOLL OF THE SEA

In recent weeks there has been a considerable number of marine tragedies. Warships, passenger vessels and smaller and less important sea-craft have gone to the bottom. Many lives have been lost. The losses have been due to a variety of reasons, most of them apparently unpreventable. It is interesting to observe in this connection that the sea takes its toll of ships annually. We used to think that when the nations were at war and the sea-viper was on the job day and night that the immense loss of tonnage almost daily could not possibly be approached in times of peace. However, figures which have just been made public furnish some food for thought along this line. In 1921, for an example, a total of 559 vessels were reported to have gone to Davy Jones' locker. This is described as a normal harvest. Lloyd's Register discloses that a total of 674,000 tons of shipping was destroyed last year. Most of these vessels were wrecked or abandoned at sea. Some were broken up at shore because their days of usefulness were ended. At the height of submarine activities during the World War in 1917, 2,607,000 tons and 748 sailing ships of 520,000 tons were lost at sea. Since 1918 the world has gone back to about its normal marine losses and disasters.—Springfield News.

The trees are now adorned with leaves of purple and gold, and in the distance a haze of yellow and variegated colors can be seen, speaking silently but emphatically that old winter "with his hoary locks and breath" is not far away. We are rapidly nearing the season when the trees will be denuded of foliage, and scampering down they will come as the cold winds from out the northwest roll them into windows at the trunk of the mother tree. This is nature's way of taking care of her own. The leaves furnish a covering for the tender roots that are near the top, and throughout the cold season protects them from the icy weather. Then again the fertilizing effect of the leaves as they go to decay during the winter months goes directly to the feed roots of the trees, fortifying them for the great effort which they make a gain in the spring when they are again adorned with verdure and fruit.

The greatest failure one can make is to never make an effort. Failure following efforts are not strictly failures, for they fortify against making the same mistake again, if proper precautions are taken.

Now the Red and White armies of Russia are again at each others throats. It certainly don't cost much to fight in that country, or reports about starvation are greatly exaggerated, or maybe the army holds the money bag.

other witnesses.

With two self possessed boys in jail, facing arraignment this afternoon, the Somerset and Middlesex County authorities worked feverishly to throw further light upon the mysterious circumstances surrounding the murder.

The two prisoners, Clifford Hayes, charged with first degree murder, and Raymond Schneider, held as a material witness, spent a comfortable night.

Public feeling is growing here that Schneider's confession must be accepted with doubt.

Hayes denied that he killed Hall and Mrs. Mills. Thomas E. Hagerty, counsel for the 15-year-old boy, said he is convinced that young Hayes is telling the truth.

There are a number of points that have not been cleared up.

According to Schneider, the shooting took place on Friday morning, Sept. 15. According to persons living in the neighborhood screams and shots were heard coming from the Phillips farm just before midnight, instead of after that hour.

Do You Feel Like an Old Young Man?

Do You Know That Without Vitamins and Iron You Would Be Dead? Ironized Yeast Builds Amazing Power!

The man with a punch is the man with many vitamins and much iron. The man of drooping energy and flabby nerves is the man with few vitamins and mighty little iron. Ironized Yeast gives you both. It is not a mere mixture of yeast and iron.

See That Nerve-Powered Fists Get Nerve-Power from Ironized Yeast!

but is yeast ironized, which is a substance all by itself. This gives back, restores to the body, materials you have lost, and which you used to have when you were romping around in your teens. Ironized Yeast contains, for this reason, Nature's greatest source of brain, nerve and tissue energy. It gives you power plus, quick! It does it in half the usual time. No matter how old you are now, you can eat a young man's iron, and a young man's vitamins: a young woman's iron, and a young woman's vitamins. These two things are the twins of human strength, human charm. They mean to you, success—social and business. There is only one Ironized Yeast in the world. Be sure that you get it, and beware of substitutes. Sold at all drug stores at 14c a package. Each package contains 60 tablets, each tablet is 1/4 inch square. They never lose their power. Made by Ironized Yeast Co., Atlanta, Ga. Get the "punch" that comes from Ironized Yeast!

WINIFRED BLACK WRITES ABOUT Wills and Testaments

Copyright, 1922, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc. Great Britain rights reserved.

TO Mary, my wife, I give and bequeath One Dollar and a Half on condition that she takes it and buys a good manila rope and hangs herself.

That's what they read at the "will reading" after the funeral the other day.

Pleasant gentleman—the man who made that will, wasn't he? And what sort of a woman was Mary, his wife, to live for thirty-seven years with such a creature, and then go to the funeral in deep mourning and act as if the very foundations of her life had been swept away, when Father died?

What sort of people are they who can't get rid of their spite while they are alive, but must reach out of the grave to slap some poor creature in the face with an insult.

There was the celebrated author who died not so long ago. He left a will in which he said:

"Whatever money or property my two children get after I am gone, they will get it if they come and ask my present wife for it. And they must bring their mother, my first wife, with them, when they come to do the asking."

And people spoke of this person as a kindly, genial, generous, well-meaning creature—when he was alive and wrote of bluff sea captains and bold buccaneers.

What a coward he really must have been!

They Cannot Forget

What had his two poor harmless children done that he should reach out of his coffin and use them as a scourge to beat a devil's tattoo upon the defenseless shoulders of the poor little woman who had once loved him enough to go down into the valley of the shadow of death and bring his children to him in her trembling arms?

What did that second wife do with that will? I don't remember—do you?

Winifred Black

I hope she took it and tore it into fragments and threw it into the fire and called the first wife and the children to her home and divided the property with them honestly and generously.

I don't see how she could ever spend a happy hour after that if she didn't do some such thing.

What a sneak a man is who isn't satisfied with the revenge that life gives him, but must try to "get even" when the grass is beginning to grow over his poor, mean, spiteful, little heart.

Wills—how people lie and steal and smirk and pretend just to get mentioned in a rich man's will.

I know a whole family who live in deadly hatred of the one they pretend to love. He is small, mean, tyrannical, stingy, selfish—everything that a man can be and live—but his family to the very smallest member of it cringes to him and flatters him and fies to him and waits—waits—waits.

Of What Avail?

All that family wants is the death of the one they flatter. Somehow I can't help wishing that when they do finally read his will they will find that he has left every dollar he had in the world to a founding asylum, and cut every one of them off with a dime apiece.

Poor things—they've earned their money—they've given their self-respect and their pride and their manhood and their womanhood to be ground into atoms—but somehow I don't believe they are going to be paid for the sacrifice.

Not even if they get the money for which they long so greedily.

What use is an automobile to a man with a shriveled soul?

What joy will all the money in the world buy for a woman who has forgotten how to smile?

Wills and testaments—no wonder the lawyers smile cynically when they even hear the things mentioned.

Albany, Ala. 509 6th Ave., W. Sept. 29th, 1922.

Dear Mr. Shackelford:

I wish to thank you for check received from the Reliance Life Insurance Company for $60.00 in settlement of my claim for recent accidental injury.

The settlement is most satisfactory, and I appreciate very much your kindness in the matter. It certainly pays to have a "PERFECT PROTECTION" Policy, when one is sick or hurt.

Very truly yours, SHERMAN W. ALLEN.

Decatur, Ala. Weil Bros., City Hall Sept. 20th, 1922.

Dear Mr. Shackelford:

Please accept my thanks for check from the Reliance Company for $216.08. This check is in payment of my claim for recent injury.

I am exceedingly glad that you induced me to take $5,000 Accident Insurance along with my life policy. I can assure you that this check for $216.08 will come in very nicely, when I settle up my Hospital bills, Doctor's bills, etc.

Sincerely yours, BEN M. MILLER.

A UNION OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

Healthy Housewife---Happy Home

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Has Helped Form Many

For the ailing, half-sick housewife such a union is impossible. Often times even the slightest form of housework cannot be accomplished. Yet the work must be done.

Many women struggle along for years suffering from some form of female trouble that make their lives miserable and their homes far from happy.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped thousands of just such women regain their health and strength. Just give your thought to the following letters and remember that the women who wrote these letters knew how they felt before taking the Vegetable Compound and again afterwards. It helped them—let it help you.

Had Nervous Spells
Horatio, Ark.—"I had nervous spells and awful bad feelings. My right side and my back hurt me all the time and I had been going down in health for six or seven years. For three years I had not been able to do my work without help. I weighed only 95 pounds when my husband's mother persuaded me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Now I heartily recommend it to all suffering women, as I have gained weight and health. I can do all my work, anything I want to do."—Mrs. JIM REARICK, Horatio, Arkansas.

Reading, Pa.—"I was a nervous wreck and could hardly do my housework. I always had to have help or I would never have got it done. Through the advice of friends I have been taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for my nerves and Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine for my blood and I am feeling fine and doing my work all alone. I can recommend these medicines to any one, for they certainly helped me. I suffered for five years and Lydia E. Pinkham's medicines pulled me through."—Mrs. WALTER U. STROYER, 1218 Mulberry St., Reading, Pa.

Recommends the Vegetable Compound

New Orleans, La.—"I have found relief from my troubles by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I praise it wherever I go. I could not do my work as it should be done for I would sometimes have to lie down because of the pains I had. A friend induced me to take your Vegetable Compound and I have got great results from it. I keep house and am able to do all my own work. I recommend your Vegetable Compound to my friends who have troubles similar to mine."—Mrs. T. FOECKLER, 1915 N. Derbigny St., New Orleans, La.

Sharing With Others.

What we share with others is that which enriches both giver and recipient. The richest man is the man who knows how to endure adversity as well as prosperity. He is the one who knows contentment. It is he who adapts himself to inevitable conditions. One's knowledge may be shared. Others may profit by that one's mental possessions. One's time should include large measures for others. Service should be given unstintingly and unselfishly.—Exchange.

Character.

Character is the hardest problem to solve. Lives of promise easily get filtered down to commonplace. When pleasure substitutes for obligation character takes wings for the barren and the future collects scraps from the hush heap. When will-power becomes amenable it takes orders from environment and vies with others in contributing to folly. This "one-of-the-crowd" conduct has left many a well-endowed life wrecked on the rocks of circum stances.

Birds in the Dark.

Not a few birds practically rear their nestlings in the dark, says the American Forestry Magazine. Well known examples of this are seen in sand martins and kingfishers—birds that dig, or scrape out, long burrows in banks, and lay their eggs at the farther end of them.

An Extraordinary Story.

Two native girl students in an African mission school, awakened by the squawks of excited fowls, found a 15-foot python with its head in the hen roost. They chopped him in two with an ax. Pajama-clad Methodist preachers arrived and investigated the snake's interior to find seven frying-size chickens, a setting hen, and her nine eggs. The eggs, unbroken, were put under another hen, who triumphantly hatched them. Rev. E. H. Richards tells the story and refers to the bishop of Africa as a corroborating witness.

Heroes of War and Peace.

We worship the heroes of war and neglect the heroes of peace. The former are few, the latter many. They are the men and women who constantly serve humanity, presenting ideals, uplifting standards, serving through love.—Exchange.

The cases were expected to be called during the late afternoon of Tuesday.

ENGLISH PAPERS DISCUSS RULING

(Associated Press.)
LONDON, Oct. 10.—Newspapers devoted considerable space to the ruling of Attorney General Daugherty prohibiting liquor on vessels within American waters, printing speculations upon changing of ports of destination in the event the ruling is enforced.

Members of the North Atlantic conference will discuss the whole question at a meeting here this week. The belief is declared that the proposal is likely to be dropped when the Americans realize they will be the chief losers as the British lines will transfer sailings to Canadian ports.

9 Reasons Why the ANCHOR Excels

- 1 Grate surface is from 1-3 to 1-2" greater than in other Hot Blasts, enabling better control of fire;
- 2 Grates are draw-center and operate on ball-bearings;
- 3 Heavy fire-pot lining is the same material as used in the cupolas that melt pig iron in the Anchor plant;
- 4 This lining lasts three times as long as the ordinary fire-pot;
- 5 Special lining construction makes radiation uniform and prevents discoloration of body;
- 6 Cast iron bottom is air-tight and prevents burning out or fires from over-heating;
- 7 The patented, air-tight, Tweer draft slide and air-tight ash door hold your fire perfectly—and permit you to shake down the ashes without raising a cloud of dust.
- 8 Planished iron body has the polish rolled in.
- 9 Gas and smoke which usually go up the flue are burned by the Anchor Hot Blast—at a saving of 30 percent to 40 percent on your coal bill.

White-of-Egg in Calumet a Vital Element Most Baking Powders Lack

Don't use a leavener that does not contain white-of-egg. When you do you take chances—you run the risk of spoiling your bakings.

CALUMET

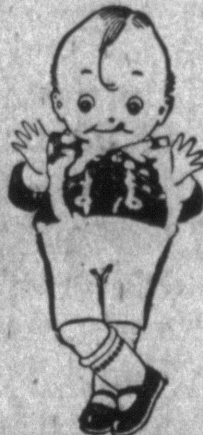

The Economy BAKING POWDER

contains a small amount of white-of-egg. This makes it possible for representatives of the company to test it frequently for leavening strength—right on the dealer's counter. Nothing but absolutely fresh stock is permitted to remain on the dealers' shelves. It must always be up to the high Calumet standard.

Remember the white-of-egg in Calumet protects the success of your bakings. It is the economical positive bake-day aid and its sale is 2½ times as much as that of any other brand.

A pound can of Calumet contains full 16 ounces. Some baking powders come in 12 ounce instead of 16 ounce cans. Be sure you get a pound when you want it.

Courtland and Shaleford schools had the best community exhibits and each would have been a prize winner in a State Fair not only as to variety and quality but arrangement as well; each showed a notable spirit of community cooperation; the arrangement of the display in the Courtland exhibit was especially attractive. The Shaleford School community exhibit showed all the farm products and handwork of the community and was interesting because the wholesome effects of a real adult school held there in the summer were emphasized. Thirty dollar libraries were awarded to each community school.

The Mount Hope school received the award for the best school exhibit; the county high school and Hatton had exhibits that attracted very favorable comment.

Te local officials of the Alabama Forest Reservation are having a telephone line completed from Moulton out to several points in the reservation and connections made at some of the few homes for the better service of the rangers and others connected with the work, especially in guarding against fires. In all, the present lines will total a distance of 19 or 20 miles.

Gentle showers fell all day Friday and at night over the greater part of Lawrence County settling much of the dust and brightening up the atmosphere in general; not enough however, to put water in the dry pools, the empty wells and the creek beds.

Preliminary meetings at the county high school building in Moulton of teachers will begin Monday and continue for three days prior to the opening of the County Teachers' Institute Thursday; these meetings are specially for those teachers who desire to take advantage of help given them by Miss Ora Devers, county elementary school supervisor and none are required to attend; numbers of beginning young teachers take advantage of the opportunity to learn the use of the many manuals and helps now available to the earnest teacher.

W. R. Jackson and Frank Howell, nominees for probate judge and county clerk respectively, attended the Community Fair at Town Creek Friday.

Judge J. C. Forney and family moved the past week into the home of Mrs. Irene Irwin who is moving to Florence.

U. E. Heid, pastor of the Baptist Church, was called to Mississippi Thursday evening by the death of a sister.

The Winston County High School football team was defeated on the local high school grounds Friday by a score of 26 to 6.

W. A. Moles was in Albany one day last week to see a physician about an irritated throat.

Clemenceau Will Pay His Own Way

(Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—Clemenceau, when he comes to the United States next month will travel alone, pay his own way and will accept no invitations, private or public, says Col. E. M. House, one of his closest friends.

COTTON MARKET.

(By International News Service)
NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—The cotton market was less active this morning. With the exception of October, which was one point higher, initial transactions were at losses of from three to eight points. The South, Liverpool and Japanese interests were sellers.

Soon after the start, however, the early losses were recovered.

BEASLEY HERE

W. F. Beasley, of Falkville, was in the city today; and had his subscription to The Daily advanced. Mr. Beasley has for the past 4 years been on the police force of Albany, and made an efficient officer.

THOUSANDS IN BATHING RITE.

The Princess Wednesday shows a colorful background in "Not Guilty." Scenes of unrivaled beauty will be a feature of Sidney A. Franklin's initial production.

Franklin is a lover of the beautiful and while his previous successes with Mary Pickford and Norma Talmadge as the stars have been noted for their wonderful settings, it is said this production outstrips them all.

Many of the scenes are supposed to be in India along the shores of the Ganges. Thousands of Hindu women will be seen bathing in the Sacred River. The world famed temples of that country will add greatly to the production, especially the scenes showing the Taj Mahal, the pure white marble mausoleum built at Agra, India, by the Mogal Emperor Shah Jehan, in memory of his favorite wife. The colorful tea houses built over the picturesque harbor at Rangoon are another feature.

The scenes are made at Del Monte playgrounds.

"THE BACHELOR DADDY."

The Princess today shows a picture which radiates happiness and which will undoubtedly help many to see the finer and truer side of life is "The Bachelor Daddy."

It is a picture which demonstrates the power of child love and no better selection for the starring role therein could have been made than Thomas Meighan, famous as the "Good Luck Star."

The story is of a man who unselfishly adopts the five motherless children of his dying pal, despite the fact that his own wedding day is but a week distant. His intended quits in a huff but Thomas comes out all right with his family of kids.

Rush For Auto Tags At Probate Office

There has been quite a rush at the probate judge's office for automobile license tags. There seems to be a disposition to get the tags before the expiration of the time limit when the tax becomes delinquent.

The large number of truck tags being secured would suggest the idea that more trucks are being used for commercial purposes than heretofore.

The ship-by-truck idea is gaining ground and much of the general merchandises old by the wholesale concerns in the county, is delivered in this manner.

When We Get It We Get It Out

We realize that it is often necessary for a firm to get printing done quickly. We do not believe that, in case of the rush order it is necessary to sacrifice Good Printing for speed.

Considering the speed on this kind of printing we do the quality of the work is invariably gratifying to our patrons.

Arrests Follow Deathbed Story

MOBILE, Oct. 10.—Five persons are held at police headquarters, two of them well known physicians and one a prominent lawyer, in connection with the death of Miss Mary Cavanaugh, 20 years old Wingfield, La., girl who died at an infirmary here Friday under mysterious circumstances. Three are held on statutory charges following the alleged deathbed confession, said to have been made by the girl, in which she is alleged to have charged that she was the victim of an illegal operation. Two are held as material witnesses. Other arrests are expected.

MANY SEE GAME.

So widespread is the interest in the coming football game to be played at Nashville next Saturday between Vanderbilt and Michigan teams, many from this county will make the journey to witness it. Some who have sons on the Vandy team from this county, will make the trip to see what promises to be one of the most hotly contested game in the South this season. Some will make the trip in cars, starting early Saturday morning.

WORDS of WISE MEN

When we stop to complain fortune for makes us.
The wise conqueror shields the conqueror.
A single fact is worth a shipload of argument.
A man's hardest taskmaster ought to be himself.
Sleep without supping and wake without owing.
Moderation is prosperity argues a great mind.
Nobody is like an honest man as an ardent knave.
In a hot dispute he argues best who says the least.
One ounce of discretion is worth a pound of wit.
Nature has perfected herself by an eternity of practice.
The more one boasts of himself the less others boast of him.
If you would be a good conversationalist, be a good listener.
A wise man may look ridiculous in the company of fools.
When you are angry count sixty and hold your tongue.
Life is like the old farm—we turn one furrow at a time, and only the man who keeps ploughing is ready for the sunset.

Angry Mob Threatens Landis

Mob surrounds Landis

When the second game in the world series was called in the 10th, with the score a tie, an angry mob surrounded the box occupied by K. M. Landis, high commissioner of baseball, and threatened him, declaring there was plenty of light to continue the game. Police had to save Landis and escort him from the field. Arrow points to Landis. The proceeds of the game were ordered given to charity by Landis.

New York Letter by Lucy Jeanne Price

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—There is a spot in New York where you may see its worst and its best. From a high point in Washington Heights close to the Hudson around 119th Street, you find yourself in the midst of grassy slopes, old trees, abandoned farm houses, and the remains of an older civilization. Just across a gulch to the East lies Broadway, built up tight with apartment houses, motion picture theaters, and all its characteristics lower downtown. Nestled among the trees on the prettier side, are several old brick buildings, now utilized by George Grey Barnard, the sculptor, for housing his studios, and his famous Cloisters. The Cloisters represent a collection of ancient sculpture, arches, gargoyles, and cathedral glass, some of it dating back to the sixth century. Mr. Barnard has set these old bits into appropriate brick structures, preserving their ancient fidelity, and exhibiting them exactly as they were taken from their original locations. The collection is an institution in itself, and frequently rumors reach us that it is to be bought and moved elsewhere. The city of Los Angeles is negotiating for it just now, and New York may well lament its passing if that event must come.

Carl Friedberg, one of the best known pianists and piano teachers of Europe, will give a course of instruction in New York this winter.

Ernest Aimless is an apartment dweller, like the rest of us. He has a studio, of course, and has been the cock of his lift, only one other tenant living on the floor with him. This tenant was most inoffensive and seldom around, so that when he moved in the general moving scramble here on the first, Ernest was distressed for fear he would draw a less desirable neighbor. His feeling turned to horror when the moving man, who took the tenant out, announced his intention of moving in. Ernest could not quite understand how he could put up with this type of tenant, and acted to prevent the catastrophe. First he called attention to the fact that there was no heat in the apartment and the gas cost about $15 a month during cold weather. He then said the water pressure was bad and to take a bath on Saturday night one had to turn the water on Monday morning. That settled it but Ernest is complaining that it takes too much of his time shoeing off tenants who do not look good to him.

We are to have a season adorned with titles, according to the present prospect. A veritable flood of English nobility is promised during the coming months. Lord and Lady Mountbatten, who are here. Very soon the daughter and son-in-law of Ogden Mills, the Earl and Countess of Granard and their pretty children are coming. The Marques and Marchioness of Dufferin will be our next. Next will be the Marchioness of Headfort, and her son, the Earl of Beective, and Viscount and Viscountess Maitland and probably various others. It is to be the gayest and smartest social season New York has had since the war.

"The Lady in Ermine," at the Ambassador, is one of the most successful musical comedies of the season to date. It is well sung and admirably acted. Wilda Bennett and Walter Woolf, in the roles of the slim and beautiful countess and her colonel, were all that could be wished.

Sumptuary Laws Cut Expenses.
Before the present Mikado's father abolished the sumptuary laws, a Japanese nobleman even of the highest rank was not permitted to spend more than $40 for a dress for his wife.
